

ABSTRACT

An organic light emitting diode device comprises a substrate (1), a layer (3) of organic, preferably polymeric, light emitting material, and a transparent cathode (4) comprising a layer of material with a work function less than 4 eV. The device has a passivation layer (5) comprising boron oxide.